

CALL FOR PAPERS

Int. Journal of IT Standards and Standardization Research

An official publication of the Information Resources Management Association!

SPECIAL ISSUE ON STANDARDIZATION EDUCATION

Guest Editor: Henk J. de Vries
Erasmus University Rotterdam, The Netherlands

Given the increasing business importance of standardization in IT and other areas, and the growth in scientific research in this field, one would also expect an increasing interest in academic teaching on standardization. In Asia this is clearly the case—other regions in the world, however, are more reluctant. Academic education should be based on academic research and, conversely, academic teaching may “feed” academic research. Therefore, we are happy to announce a special issue of the International Journal on IT Standards and Standardization Research on the topic of standardization education. Possible topics include, but are not limited to:

- The need for education on standardization,
- Curriculum development,
- Pedagogic approaches,
- Evaluation of teaching activities,
- Case studies.

Though the journal focuses on IT standardization education, papers on standardization education in general are welcome as well. Some preference will be given to papers with a sound scientific underpinning. However, position papers (outlining, e.g., the views of policymakers, standards bodies, or schools) will also be considered.

Important Dates

Submission deadline: October 1, 2006
Acceptance decision: December 1, 2006
Camera-ready paper due: January 15, 2007

Please send all submissions and enquiries to:

Henk J. de Vries
RSM Erasmus University
Department of Management of Technology & Innovation
Chair of Standardization
P.O. Box 1738, Room F2-54
3000 DR Rotterdam
The Netherlands
Phone: +31 10 408 20 02
e-mail: hvries@rsm.nl

ISSN 1539-3062
eISSN 1539-3054
Published quarterly

For other information about JITSR, please visit <http://www.idea-group.com/JITSR>